THE DOMINON OF CANADA.

Opening of Parliament-Speech of the Gov-ornor General-Consolidation and Confeder-

To-day, at three o'clock P. M., his Excellency the Governor General opened the second session of the First Parliament of the Dominion of Canada with the Honorable Gryllemen of the Senate and of the House of Commons:—

I have great satisfaction in having recourse to your advice, and I rejoice to think that on this, the first occasion on which I have had the honor of addressing you, we may congratulate ourselves on the aspect of public affairs at home and abroad; on the prevalence of peaceful councils among the nations, and on the indications of agreement and tranquility favorable alike to the development of foreign commerce and the prosecution of domestic industry.

The great scheme, confederation, was inaugurated under the auspices of my predecessors. It is to me a source of pride to find my name in honorable association with the rising fortunes of the Dominion of Canada, and I shall count it a happiness, as well as a duty, to co-operate to the utmost of my ability in furthering the efforts to atrengthen the ites that bind the different provinces together, and to insure an attachment of the people to the soil by the enactment of wise and equal laws. Your efforts in these directions seem now more than ever likely to be called into action, inasmuch as the terms upon which these great accessions are offered to the Dominion will be submitted for your immediate consideration.

His Excellency then referred to the fact that the

which these great accessions are offered to the Dosideration.

His Excellency then referred to the fact that the Hodson bay Company has accepted the terms proposed for the surrender of their rights in the Northwest territory and commended the subject to the immediate consideration of Parliament.

He consuminations from the Governor of Newfoundiand, expressing the desire for admission into the Union which prevails among the inhabitants of that colony, and especially by his despaten of 20th of March last, covering copies of the resolutions which have been passed by the Council and Assembly, and which set forth the conditions they consider it desirable to advance. These documents shall be furnished at once, for the information of Parliament, and I hope that before the close of the session I may be in position to submit the details of a provisional arrangement for your consideration. It will be a pleasure to me, as well as a subject of general congriptulation if at some early day, the fine colony of Newfoundiand—univalied as a nursery of hardy seamen and inexhaustible in its wealth of fisheries—becomes a part of the Dominion.

In accordance with the suggestion of her Majesty's government, an earnest attempt has been made to

THE AURORA BOREALIS.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 15, 1869. The aurora borealis was seen here at about eight o'clock. It was of a whitish color, and appeared like clouds sent by the wind. A beautiful bow was formed in the south. At nine o'clock the sky again lighted, first in the northwest, then verging around to the east, darting out huge sheens of light, which turned red and then faded away, when they would again burst forth. It lasted about an hour and a half.

The wires at this point were seriously affected at times during the evening by auroral currents, although no pnenomenon was visible in the heavens.

Between the hours of hair-past seven and ten o'clock this evening the northern lights were slightly visible; but the effects upon the telegraph wires were hardly perceptible.

RICHMOND, April 15, 1869. About eight o'clock this evening a belt of white, apparently about six feet in width, appeared across the sky, extending from East to West, and drifted northward, crossing and to some extent obscuring the moon, and finally gathered, as a fan closes, and disappeared. The aurora borealis is now visible in the northern horizon. The people generally turned out to witness the phenomenon.

CBITUARY.

A telegram from Boston announces the death in that city, at half-past ton o'clock last night, of Charles O. Rogers, the well known proprietor of the Boston Journal, in the fifty-first year of his age. The deceased journalist was born in Massachusetts, on the 29th of September, 1818, his father being the publisher of a weekly newspaper called the Na-tional Ægis, in the office of which he learned tional Ægis, in the office of which he learned the trade of a printer and became acquainted with the profession of journalism. He also passed some years of his life on his grandfather's farm, on which he labored for a small remuneration. Finally he became a clerk, and after being employed in various establishments entered the office of the Journal as bookkeeper and general business manager. At his suggestion a morning edition of the paper was started and conducted successfully. After the lapse of some years he, in partner ship with an elder brother, became one of the proprietors, and later he became the sole owner. As a journalist he was most successful, his paper gaining an enviable popularity in New England and obtaining a large circulation. Personally, Mr. Rogers was a most estimable gentleman, and the many people who knew him, either professionally or individually, will hear of his death with profound regret.

This well known architect died at Cincinnati on the 13th inst., in the sixty-ninth year of his age. He was born in Massachusetts, on the 17th of August, 1800, received an excellent education, and, on entering upon the duties of his profession, soon became prominent. He was the architect of the Tremont House, Boston; the Astor House, New York; the Burnet House, Cincinnati; the Overton House, Nashville; the Carthage Lunatic Asylum, and of numerous other buildings of note throughout the country.

ALLEGED SUICIDE OF A SPIRITUALIST.

He Dies in a Station House-Testimony of a Test Medium.

It is now alleged that Mr. Edwin Rogers, the man who died in the Seventeenth precinct police station, where he had applied for lodgings on Tuesday night, effects of a dose of morphine, taken by himself for the purpose of self-destruction. Deceased was a firm believer in spiritualism; but, although a man of ability, he had become sadly reduced in circumstances and was unable to meet his current expenses. Hence his resolution to terminate an existence which had become burdensome to him. Some further light was yesterday thrown upon the circumstances attending the death of Mr. Rogers by the appearance before Coroner Keenan, at his office in the City Hall, of John B. Conklin, a well known spiritualist. Mr. Conklin, who lives at 154 Fourth street, deposed to being acquainted with deceased, who was a piano maker by trade and also an author; on Tuesday evening deceased called upon the witness at his room and handed him a paper and asked him to read it when he left; deceased also asked the witness to loan him ten cents, and on receiving the money he-jeft; Mr. Conklin then read the paper, and to his astonishment found it to be his (Rogers) oblituary notice, to which was attached the name of the witness; deceased the years previously had attempted to commit suicids by jumping overboard from a ferryboat; on Sunday last deceased told the witness he was tired of living, and asked him what he took his own life he would be an unwelcome guest in the other world; subsequently the witness heard of Rogers' death by reading the Hgrald.

A post-mortem examination was made on the body by Dr. Shine, but no positive poison could be detected, although it is firmly believed deceased had swallowed a dose of morphine; if so it had been absorbed in the system, and will require an analysis of the internal organs to learn the truth of the allegations. Deceased was about thirty-three years of age and a native of Long Island. He had a room corner of Sixth avenue and Ninth street, but was unable to square accounts with his landiady. After reading the obituary notice Mr. Conklin said that for the purpose of having the same in serted in one of the morning journals.

While in the Coroner's office does do being a darker Mr. Conklin and the deceased the sale of adulterated articles of food, drink or medicine; enabling the supervisors of Kings county to equalize the salaries of the supervisors of State charities by three; reappropriating a portion of the United State Company to increase its capital stock; amending the some to him. Some further light was yes thrown upon the circumstances attending the death Edgar A. Poe.

The case will be further investigated by Coroner Keenau.

WORKINGMEN'S UNION.

A regular meeting of the delegates from the various trade organizations comprising the Workingmen's Union was held last evening at Early Closing gall, 267 Bowery, with the president, Mr. Jessup, in the citair. The meeting was called for eight o'clock. but it was fally three-quarters of an hour after that time before the roll was called. During the calling of the roll the President ordered the secretary to notify the Laborers' Union and the United Coop-time before the rell was called. During the calling of the roll the Press, ent ordered the secretary to notify the Laborers' Union and the United Coopers No. 4 of their continued absence of his secretary the minutes were dispensed with. The President announced that at a special meeting held on Saturds' last a committee was appointed to make arrangements for a mass meeting to be held this (Priday) evening, at Cooper Institute, to support the painters in their strike.

A delegate from the Journeymen Tailors reported that the movement made by the journeymen to equalize the rate of compensation had been successful in obtaining the consent of the principal employers. He reported that those who worked on ready made clothing were progressing with their organization and would ere long join the union.

Mr. Young, from Typographical Union No. 6, reported that the strike of the book printers had ended, the men had all gone to work, and the union was at peace. The Laborers reported great opposition from non-society men. Several delegates announced that the societies which they represented intend to hold public meetings. The Varnishers and Polishers announced through their delegate that at a meeting they had decided to claim an advance of twenty per cent on the present rate of wages. They announced the determination of the society to the employers, and gave them until Saturday, evening next to comply. The President called the attention of the Union to the strike of the Second avenue car drivers, and suggested that the matter should be made this evening. Mr. Young, from the Typographical and Mr. Ennis, from the Piasterers' Union, spoke on the subject, and berated the public functionaries, and especially Marshai Tooker. On motion of Mr. Young a committee of five was appointed to consider a plan of life insurance which had been proposed to the union. The committee, as appointed, consists of Messrs. The Bill for the Prevention of Fraud at Elections Passed the Senate-The Non-Resident Market Bill Passed in the House-Shaky Condition of the Broadway Surface Rail-

ALBANY, April 15, 1869. The Naturalization law, as it is called, was before the Senate to-day. There was a very bitter debate upon it, but it passed by the votes of all the Senators present except Mr. Creamer, who voted in the nega-tive. Mr. Creamer's objection to this bill was under-stood to be that, while all its provisions are exclu-sively of a penal character, there is nothing in it which gives the naturalized citizen who may have lost his naturalization papers, the right to prove that fact by affidavit. As the law stands now it is dis-cretionary with the election officials to receive his affidavit or not. Senator Creamer thinks that this protection should be extended to naturalized citi-

the Comptroller from renting stalls in any of the New York markets to others than residents of the State met with some opposition, on the ground that it was in violation of the constitution of the United States, which guarantees to citizens of one State the rights enjoyed by the citizens of all. This objection, however, was not as strong as that of Mr. Hixon, who urged that the bill deprived the Comp-

Hixon, who urged that the bill deprived the Comptroller of the power to rent market stalls to the advantage of the city treasury. The argument that the law would exclude producers of agricultural products from the markets was answered by Mr. Plunkett, who stated that this class had the privilege of selling from their wagons on payment of a small fee, and the bill was aimed at the middle-men or speculators in stalls, who rented, not from the city, but from private individuals who somehow get the right to rent the stalls.

The Broadway Surface Railroad bill was tabled in the Senate to-day by a vote of eighteen to thirteen. The Governor's veto of the 125th street bill seems to have fatten like a pall upon the Broadway scheme. But its supporters are no doubt preparing for another spring. There is no doubt, however, that the opinion prevails with many that the bill is not in a healthy condition just now. There may possibly arrive one of these days a powerful combination of the interests which have suffered and may yet suffer from the Governor's infexible views of this king of legislation which may attempt to override all his railroad vetoes. Should this occur, of course the Governor's record stands good for commy and the protection of the public rights.

The party from Brooklyn, consisting of Mayor Kalbdeisch, members of the Board of Aldermen and Supervisors, heads of departments of the local government and others, to the number of about seventy, left on board a steaming from the foot of Montague street at two o'clock and reached the ship after half an hour's sail at pier 45 North river. The vessel was found dressed in her gayest colors, and a fine band of music stationed on the quarter deck tent éclat to the occasion. Captain Brooks received the party at the head of the gangway and cordially welcomed the visitors. Several gentlemen of New York were found inspecting the vessel, and among others were his Honor A. O. Hall, Mayor, and Judge Barnard, of the Supreme Court. The magnificent appearance and condition of the new ship in each and every department was Court. The magnificent appearance and condition of the new ship in each and every department was such as to draw forth the most euloristic comments from all. At three o'clock the company were escorted to the saloon, and the formal presentation of the colors took place.

Mayor Kalepileison, addressing the commander of the ship, said:—

Captalt Beooks—The municipal authorities of the city of Brookiya have delegated to me the pleasing duty of formally presenting to you aset of colors with which to decorate this beautiful vessel, which bears the name of the city we represent. The compliment which in so doing the directors of the Imman line of steamships have naid the city, let me assure you, is fully appreciated by our citrzens, and is received as one of the many tokens of kind and fraternal feeling which our European brethren have of last years manifested toward the American people. I am convinced that nothing has tended so much to arouse these kindly feelings on both sides of the water and to promote a sentiment of riendship and brotherhood between distant nations as the establishment and success of the great fleet of ocean steamships to which this splendid vessel is the latest, but not the least, addition. Through their means the voyage across the senting and the complex of the continuation of the companies of the middle and undertaking, has one continuation one so for midable as undertaking, has one continuation of the companies of the companies of the continuation of the companies of the compa that no mean selection has been made of a godmother for your ship. Born as communities about the same date, and of the same progenitors, we claim for Brooklyn that she is twin eister of the city of New York. Circumstances left Brooklyn dwarfed and stunted in growth ifor a long period, yet within the last quarter of a century she has displayed a vigor and rapidity of growth which, continued for the next decade, will place her a head and shoulders above her proud sister on the other side of the East river. Yet we are twin sisters, one and the same in interest and feeling, and a connecting link, we all trust, will soon be constructed which will make the two cities as one in body, as does the ligature that binds the Blamess twins.

Capitain Brooks, please receive these colors. May the national engine among them long wave side by side over your noble gens among them long wave side by side over your noble gens among them long wave side by side over your noble gens among them long wave side by side over your noble gens and the side of the side of the side of the control of the control of the Cultide States of America, but in the future be the controlling sentiment in the intercourse of the countries between whose shores this noble ship is to ply, let us hope with speed, safety and prosperity unsurpassed in the blatory of steam navigation.

Mr. MAYOK AND GENTLEMEN—In rising to respond to the very sloquest speech we have beard from the Honor the Mayor of the city of Brooklyn, it is with feeling of cooper the Mayor of the city of Brooklyn, it is with feeling of cooper the great that this pleasing task was not placed in abler hands than mins. Mere words, gentiemen, will but freely express to you how deeply grateful I feel to you for the distinguished honor you have conferred upon us in presenting this set of beautiful colors to the ship which I am proud to command. When I reflect, Mr. Mayor, that you, sir, the Chief Magistrate of a large important city, whose time must be fully occupied by the duties and responsibilities of your high position, have sacrificed a portion of that valuable time in making this presentation, if feel sure that you have indeed paid us a high compliment in honoring us with your presence here the City of Brooklyn—a city that is celebrated all over the world for the beauty and virtue of its women and the bravery and generosity of its men. I can also thankfully say that in that city I have found some of the warmest and dearest felends of my life, many of whom I have the pleasure of seeing around me at the present moment. You may therefore rest assured, gentlemen, that my best energies will be devoted to this ship in order that she may become a credit to the heartful city whose name she bears. Mr. Mayor and gentlemen, allow me to thank you most smoored for the honory ou have ing new ship coming to your shores may but add another link to that great chain which bluds our two countries together in love and friendship.

ALLEGED POST OFFICE ROBBERY IN LOWELL.

An Old Clerk Detected in a Long Series of Robberies of Valuable Letters—The Character and Extent of His Peculations.

During the past year or more the business men money placed in letters for transmission through the his card so ingeniously and shrewdly that he set at defiance all the practices of the in the act of opening two letters, which con-tained valuable papers, though no money was in them. The name of the guilty party is Philip P. Haggerty, forty-two years of age, having a wife and four children, and residing in Lowell. The peculations of this man have been going on for the past two years. For this length of time it has been known that letters passing through the Lowell office and the office in this oily were abstracted. Postmaster Goodwin, of the former office, relaxed no efforts to detect the thief, but he failed to discover any clug to the guilty party. The matter was finally taken in hand by Mr. C. P. Johnson, of this city, a special as of this city, as pecial as of this city, as pecial as of this city, as pecial as of this city, as the office with the office might be the only place where letters would be taken to be tamperd with. Accordingly every person connected with the office might be the only place where letters would be taken to be tamperd with. Accordingly every person connected with the office who visited that place was watched by Mr. Johnson. To better facilitate his purpose, the officer bored an angur hole through the ceiling above, in the outhouse about ten o'clock, and cooking through the hole Mr. Johnson saw Haggerty went into the outhouse about ten o'clock, and cooking through the hole Mr. Johnson saw Haggerty was immediately taken into custody. He at first denied his guild, but soon after confessed to having opened the letters which he had brought from the office. The peculator was brought to this city, and yesterday afternoon he was taken before United States Commissioner Hallet and bound over in the sum of $5,000 for examination, and was committed to jail for want of bail. Among the losers by Haggerty's peculations is J. C. Ayer & Co., of Lowell, who have lost numerous small amounts. Thousands of dollars belonging to other parties have also been abstracted by Haggerty in small sums. Factory ciris, too, are among his victime. One four children, and residing in Lowell. The grand race, first half mile, ten times round the arena, took place; ninegentries; prize, a superb $200 silver plated and tvory mounted velocipede.

Mr. Brooka, of the American Velocipede Cich, took the velocipede with him, having travelled the half mile ior it m 1:575.

Mr. Daring made the distance in 1:59%, and would have been entitled to the second prize if any such prize had been offered.

Brooks rode a Wood's machine, forty inch wheel; Darling rode a forty-one inch Demarest.

American Velocipede Club stock went up as high as New York Central immediately after the event was decided.

The Wesleyan Female College students, at Wilmington, Del., visited the velocipede rink at that place on Monday evening last, and were highly pleased with the pastime.

CONFIRMATION OF THE SCENE AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

President Grant and Senator Ross.

[Washington (April 12) Correspondent of the Chicago Tim'ss;

Quite a scene occurred at the White House to-day. It appears that Senator Ross, of Kalisa, obtained an interview with the President and protested against the renomination of one Babcock for Surveyor General of that Sate—the appointment failing to be acted on last week—and added that Senator Pomeroy and Representative Clarke had been making pretty much all the Kansas appointments. Grant replied that it was useless to say more; as his mind was already made up on the Surveyorship. Ross continued protesting, when Grant said, "I tell you my mind is made up. I don't want to hear any more." Ross replied, "Go to h.-l." Then Grant moved toward him, and said, "Get out of this house instantly, and never set your foot in it again." Ross, without a word, at once left. A witness furnishes the account. President Grast and Senator Ross.
